James Tatton with a “cow gun” (6 inch howitzer) was attached to the Mounted Infantry Company of The Buffs in the Eastern Transvaal from mid-1900 and is mentioned by name in: “With The Buffs in South Africa” by Lt. Col. J.B. Backhouse. The incident that probably led to the award of Tatton’s DCM took place on 19 November 1900 during Gen. Ben Viljoen’s attack on Balmoral (p 67 of above): “The 6-in howitzer, the only gun in camp, ably handled by Sergeant Tatton, RGA, did excellent work. One shell placed on South West Hill, soon after it was captured, killed two Boers and wounded three others, but failed to burst, or it would have done more damage. Another shell put one of the Boer guns out action, and another obliged the pom-pom to retire. In all 48 shells were fired in various directions during the six hours the attack lasted, and to those who know what a howitzer of this size is like, the hard work can be imagined.” On the night of 18 May 1901 a party of Boers tried to cross the railway near Balmoral. On the first shot being fired at them, the shell burst in the howitzer and blew it to bits. Two gunners (including Tatton’s brother) were killed and Sgt. Tatton and 9 more were injured. He was Mentioned in Dispatches in the London Gazette of 10 September 1901 and the award of the DCM was published in the London Gazette of 27 September 1901. During WWI Tatton must have served in the United Kingdom, as his MIC confirms the award of the single BWM. Contact marks on earlier awards and KSA suspender wobbly. An interesting group with medals from 4 monarchs. Sold with copies of QSA &amp; KSA roll pages, WWI MIC as well as relevant pages from “Buffs” History	EF-	40 000

Stuart 1 st SAMR British War medal 1914/18 Lt E.A. Stuart Bilingual Victory medal RFM E.A. Stuart 1 st SAMR – all officially impressed. James Amborse Brown in “A Gathering of Eagles” (The SAAF History Vol 1) records on page 13 “Pilots called out for retraining found skills acquired over the battle fields of France and of touch with flying D.H.Q’s on a high-altitude aerodrome in Africa. In the young forces first fatal accident (due to aircraft failure) on 18 September 1922 Capt A.L.M. Van der Byl was killed with Lt E.A. Stuart of the SAMR”. Stuart had decided to become a pilot so Van der Byl had taken him up on a trial flight. Van der Byl, who had served from 1914-18 and commanded a squadron of the RAF in North Russia in 1919, had taken a route over his family farm in Irene and during some low lever flying the accident occurred. Stuart had served in the German SWA Campaign from 23/8/1914 receiving various promotions until that of Lieut on 10/5/18. Included are 22 pages of research detailing episodes of Stuart’s police service and in the Transkei round Umtata and round Libode, including a riding accident. Of interest are a number of pages where after Stuart’s death the then Quartermaster General 1 st SAMR Roberts Heights were trying to get back certain items of equipment and uniform such as boots and white helmet of the dead Lieutenant. Before World War 1 Stuart had served in the Cape Mounted Riflemen from 1908 to 1913.	EF	1000-1800

Special Service Battalion (SSB) on 21/2/1938 and served in the 2 nd Permanent	VF	7910

	Force Band in East Africa and the Middle East 1941-1943. He was promoted L/Cpl in 1942 and was discharged from full time service on 07/08/1946 on demobilization. He continued to serve in the Permanent Force SAAF (and was awarded Union Medal No 1002 on 14 April 1957) until retirement in 1976 with the rank of WO1, the highest rank possible for a bandsman to reach in a band. He appears in group photographs at the S.A.A.F. Band HQ in Pretoria. He died in 1984 aged 72. With 37 pages of copied research – an unusual long service group to a Bandsman.
